For technical advice, we are always ready to serve you – over the counter, by telephone or on location. All our employees have a technical education and are up to date on the latest technological developments. For questions concerning drive systems and controllers, we even have a specialised technical support department with experts who can provide you with independent advice to help you select the right application. When you need to resolve a malfunction, they will assist you via a simulation or visit your site in person. You can count on us for commissioning as well. For more complex challenges, the technical support staff can also call upon the expertise and practical experience of our control technology specialists. Van de Meerakker has all the resources necessary to provide you with optimal technical support.
